ɕ-/ʑ-

It is not sj/zj because unlike kj/kʰj/gj; pj/pʰj/bj etc. ɕ and ʑ occur also with /i, e, o, u/ not only with /a/. Is this an argument to posit /ia/ instead of Cj? Argument against: comparative evidence from Tibetan, Dzongkha, Sherdukpen (old lady) shows that many Cj-clusters have changed into affricates; e.g. tj-/kj-/pj- > tʰɕ-; tʰj-/kʰj-/pʰj- > tʰɕʰ-; dj-/gj-/bj- > dʑ-. This might have happened in Duhumbi with the Cji-/Cjo-/Cje-/Cju- clusters (e.g. *byer > ɕerda ‘fly’; *brak > ɕak ‘cliff’; ) but for some reason this change was resisted by some Cja-clusters. Or these are plain Ca- with later palatalisation? More evidence?
